

INFOBASE INFO YOU CAN USE

Effective Grant Writing for Today's Educators

By Kelly M. Mathey

PART 1 General Grant Writing Suggestions

Effective Grant Writing for Today's Educators

PART 1: GENERAL GRANT WRITING SUGGESTIONS

Grants can be an extremely effective way to get funding for supplemental educational resources that might otherwise be out of consideration for your school or district.

---

A lot of research, planning, and know-how goes into a successful grant application.

---

Our new three-part eBook series will provide essential, tried-and-true tips for every step of the process to increase your chances of success. If you are looking to apply for a grant to secure funds for resources, you've come to the right place. In Part 1, we start with the basics.

THE COMPLETE EBOOK SERIES

PART 1: General Grant Writing Suggestions

PART 2: Locating Collaborators and Finding Funding

PART 3: Writing an Effective Grant Proposal

PART 1 General Grant Writing Suggestions

Here are some important principles to keep in mind as you get started with the grant writing process:

- ◆ Research your school district and building's mission, vision, strategic design, and goals—connect everything in your grant proposal back to these core items. Highlight shared goals.

MISSION

VISION

VALUES

- ◆ Find the core value words, phrases, and statements, and use those as the foundation of your responses. Show how your request will bring value to your school or district and help fulfill their goals and vision.
- ◆ Be sure to keep responses simple and to the point. Follow the foundation's requirements, and provide only the information requested. Remember, foundations are likely getting thousands of requests—everyone has a great cause out there—so keep it simple and stick to what is being asked. Follow the foundation's instructions exactly.

DON'T WORK ALONE

If possible, assemble a team to help with the application. Tasks can be divided between a researcher, a writer, and/or a proofreader, to name a few.

Effective Grant Writing for Today's Educators

PART 1: GENERAL GRANT WRITING SUGGESTIONS

- ◆ When writing your request, imagine you are teaching your class a new concept and need to provide clear explanations. Provide details, examples, and dates to support your request or “pitch.” However, since foundations are bombarded by requests, it’s best to keep it short and sweet.
- ◆ Use observations, examples, and substantiated proof—facts are indisputable and help underscore the legitimacy of your request.

Identify the challenges your school is facing and how the grant will help.

- ◆ Remember, the key to winning a grant is to make the grant givers feel like they are important and that their vision and mission align with what you are looking to do in the classroom. The grant givers want to feel validated in their role and also want to be able to validate your requested funds according to the district/building goals.

PLAN IN ADVANCE

Spend some time looking up appropriate grants, and note all deadlines. Make a plan working backward from those deadlines to ensure you have enough time to submit a well-crafted application.